The easement in favor of Grantor reserved herein shall run with and benefit the Grantor's land as above-described, and shall burden the Grantee's land conveyed hereby (the servient tenement).

In addition to the foregoing easement, the Grantor hereby reserves the perpetual and unrestricted right to run cables, underground power, telephone, internet, sewer, water, and other such utilities, including overhead transmission lines of any kind, as may be necessary for the development or unrestricted use of Grantor's dominant tenement. This easement does not prohibit any concurrent use of the servient tenement by the Grantee, and such use is intended to be mutually beneficial to both Grantor and Grantee. Further, it is not necessary for Grantor to obtain consent from Grantee to use the servient property for the benefit of the dominant tenement nor is it necessary for the Grantee to obtain consent from the Grantor to use the servient tenement so long as neither party unreasonably restricts the rights of both parties to use the servient tenement for their respective benefits.

The Grantee acknowledges that the Grantor is not required to maintain, or assist in maintaining, the servient property as it is intended to be used for development by the Grantee. Nor shall Grantor be required to pay for any materials or labor used for construction or maintenance of any road on or over the servient tenement, unless Grantor wishes to develop the dominant tenement and needs to increase the size or change the surface of any existing roadway. Grantee acknowledges that the Grantor does not have to pay any rent or any fee for use of the servient tenement including any surfaces, gutters, sidewalks, or other structures Grantee places thereon. Grantee agrees to keep the roadway on the servient tenement in good and accessible condition so Grantor can access the dominant tenement. Grantees shall not be permitted to place any gate or obstruction on the servient tenement without providing a key to any such gate to the Grantor.

Both Grantor and Grantee agree that the "Friends of the Weiser River Trail", its heirs, assigns, attorneys, agents, members, or supporter are never permitted to use, occupy (temporarily or permanently), set foot upon, trespass, or otherwise traverse or possess any portion of the servient tenement for any purpose whatsoever, including gaining access to the trail.

Notwithstanding the conveyance of this property from Grantor to Grantee, the grant shall not pass with it the mineral, water, and other rights appurtenant thereto, and such rights are specifically reserved to Grantor.
